

I will no longer question my government. I will no longer ask for proof of claims. I will not bother to think for myself – I trust their opinions. I believe my government can never do wrong. I will from now on always believe that my government has the best of intentions. I will not question its foreign policy – how could I ever be smart enough to understand such things? I will always trust the government when it says that it acts morally, even if it initially might appear otherwise. I will not allow others to convince me that there could be ulterior motives my government's actions. I will vote every election and be satisfied even when my candidate doesn't win. I will not bother to get involved in matters that don't concern me or that I couldn't possibly understand. I trust politicians. I could never doubt or second-guess the decisions of politicians, regardless of how much money they take from corporations, corruption newspapers claim, or so-called lies they say. I believe that my government has my best interests in mind. I do not believe it when others say that my government fights its wars for oil. I will trust my government when it sells weaponry to possibly dictatorial regimes, because I know it means well. I am willing to give up some of my freedoms for more security. I believe that by passing more laws and fighting more wars against terrorists I will finally be safe. I will not question the laws passed in the name of fighting terrorism. I believe that the President knows best. I believe that the President should be given wide authority to make as many decisions as necessary to protect us from evildoers. I believe that economic stability comes from the Stock Market. I will never again question the foundations upon which our capitalist system is based. I now know that we need to allow certain people to make a lot of money because the vitality of our system depends on it. I will not believe unions who claim that they deserve a "voice" in workplace decisions. I will not trust anyone who advocates a minimum wage increase, or even a minimum wage, period. I am a true patriot. I will no longer question what my boss at work says because he probably knows better than I do what's best for the company. I will not doubt his decisions, because the success of the company depends on it. I will even accept being downsized because deep down inside I know that it really means that the company can remain competitive in the market place. I don't want to question my boss's decision in downsizing question whether my company gets from the local and federal breaks for corporations are that fifty-one percent of the military. I believe that a strong keep us safe from those who never question our freedom. I of my freedoms in order to intact. I would be willing to fight against those who see my ground, even though I may be a think my son is important in and he would be willing to die if I'm not with the President, know that I shouldn't question because the President is a lot strategic than I am. I know the wrong. I know that the key to trusting the President, no these colors don't run. I will no accountability from politicians, bipartisan consensus to stand not accuse politicians and the law, being on the take, or purposes, because, even if true, not need to have all of my know all information, because important than democracy ever could be. I do not have to listen to alternative viewpoints, because democracy means getting what you want. I want to be able to do whatever I want. I am, however, willing to give up a few freedoms if it'll mean being more secure. I am okay with have less accountability in our democracy, because our democracy is the best in the world. I don't really care if I get stuck in traffic jams, commuting for hours every week, and have to make car payments, because having a car gives me freedom. I know that if my country were not as brave as it is, I wouldn't be able to drive everywhere I wanted to. I would have less freedoms if my government did not make sure it could get as much oil as it wants. I will no longer question foreign policy or domestic policy. I know that democracy means making do with what you're allowed to do. I know that I have certain freedoms, but that I should be willing to give up other freedoms if my government asks me to. I shouldn't demand more answers about my freedoms. I don't care if my freedoms are linked to the actions of my government in the rest of the world. I don't care about what goes on in other countries as long as the price of gas stays low. I think that the rest of the world is incredibly uncivilized, but I don't really know where those uncivilized places are or what they are called. I will happily trust others to tell me what other countries are uncivilized and need our government to bomb them. I know that my country is better than every other country in the world. I know that I am superior to everyone else in other countries because I come from the best country in the world. I know my government is the best because we are strong. I know we have the world's best democracy because they preserve all of our freedoms – and I know this because my government tells me so. I will not question the President. I will not question my lifestyle. I will not question my country's actions. I will not question my government. My country, right or wrong. I will no longer think.

me. I will no longer deserves the tax breaks it government. I know that tax important. I accept the fact taxes I pay go towards the military is the only way to hate our freedom. I could am willing to give up some keep my country's freedom send my son overseas to country crushed into the bit unsure of the situation. I fighting for my freedoms for it, I'm sure. I know that I'm with the terrorists. I the President's logic smarter, craftier, and President could never be preserving my freedoms is matter what. I know that longer demand because they need to have a behind the President. I will President of breaking the manipulating us for political they are all we have. I do freedoms. I do not need to National Security is more
